Counsel should be aware of their continuing obligations of the Local Rules at the Court of Appeals.

While the district court representation, for voucher purposes, ends with the case's disposition in the district court, the First Circuit's Local Rule 12.0(b) provides that an attorney who has represented a defendant in a criminal case in the district court will be responsible for representing the defendant on appeal until the attorney is relieved of such duty by the Circuit. Detailed procedures for withdrawal in criminal cases are found in First Circuit Local Rule 46.6.
